Draft Environmental Impact Report

WHO: California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo Facilities Planning and Capital Projects (Cal Poly)

WHAT: Cal Poly has extended the public comment period for the Student Housing South draft Environmental Impact Report (EIR). The original comment period is underway, and was set to end January 9, 2014. The comment period has been extended to January 24, 2014.

The Student Housing South project consists of approximately 1,475 beds of student housing in four- to five-story structures along with a 300- to 500-space parking structure on approximately 12 acres at the current location of the R-1 and R-2/G-4 surface parking lots at Grand Avenue and Slack Street. The project requires amendment of the campus Master Plan.

An EIR has been prepared that evaluates the environmental impacts related to the project. Significant unavoidable impacts of the project include air quality, greenhouse gas emissions, and traffic. Copies of the document are available for review at the Kennedy Library on campus, the City/County Library at 995 Palm Street in San Luis Obispo, and online at: http://afd.calpoly.edu/facilities/facp_index.asp
